CHIAN KAL-SHECK IS ROUTING THE REDS

BESET WITH ENEMIES WITHIN AND WITHOUT FACES CRISIS

Cantonese Moderates and Reds Battle To Death At Shanghai While Northern Army Advancing To Give Southern Army Battle—Inter-Party Meeting Was Held Thursday At Nanking To Decide Control of the Nationalists.

The Cantonese generalissimo, General Chiang Kai-Shek, on the eve of his projected inter-party meeting at Nanking, at which he hopes to destroy the power of the radicals within the Cantonese regime, was beset Wednesday night at Shanghai by an apparently determined drive of the northerners and fierce fighting between contending factions behind his own lines.

At least 100 Chinese were killed and 250 wounded in fighting Wednesday, which grew out of further raids on the native suburb of Shanghai by General Chiang's troops, which have been routing out "reds" for the past two days.

Wednesday morning 20 pickets of the Shanghai General Labor union also were killed when they attacked the headquarters of the Cantonese troops in the Chapel district. The attack came after a protest parade thru the district organized by workers angered by Tuesday's raids on union headquarters.

In the shooting that took place some bullets entered the nearby international settlement, causing some excitement. The firing was mostly in the Chapel, Nanto, Jessfield and Pootung sections.

Wednesday afternoon's raids, which resulted in 100 dead, were conducted as part of a plan to rid the Koumintang (Cantonese political organization), of "communists."

Chang's advisers at Shanghai say the Nanking conference will be a final showdown as to whether the Nationalists (Cantonese) will definitely go "red" or will oust the radical civil leaders.

It is at this projected conference that General Chiang hopes to rally sufficient strength to oust the Hankow radicals from the party and to expel other elements from the Koumintang.

Among the questions to be decided are whether the capital of the Cantonese government shall be moved from Hankow to Nanking.

Meanwhile the police received reports that the general strike called in protest against the raids was growing more extensive and it was estimated Wednesday night that 100,000 workers were out in various industrial sections, including the international settlement. It was feared in some quarters that unless the strike ends by Thursday the newspapers will suffer.

The employees of one paper threatened to walk out Wednesday but on being told not to return if they did so, the workers remained.

While these internal factional disorders were occurring, the northerners, only a few weeks ago in full retreat before the victorious Cantonese Wednesday drove their lines further southward, consolidating their positions all along the north bank of the Yangtse river and in one case, Hsiaohoku, near Kiangyin, crossing the river. Kiangyin is half way between Nanking and Shanghai.

The feeling was general in Shanghai that the northerners had decided to stage their drive on the eve of the meeting summoned for Wednesday at Nanking in the hope of splitting up the Cantonese geographically as well as politically.

Word was received that the British gunboat Woodcock, proceeding down the Yangtse river from Hankow, had been fired on by the Chinese, presumably Nationalists. The Woodcock replied with machine guns and six-pounders. There were no British casualties.

FORESTRY CLUB IS ENROLLING THE FARM BOYS

New Kind of 4-H Club Added to Those Sponsored by State College.

Ohio farm boys, after told that an acre of trees planted now will in 40 years provide enough lumber for a barn, will have the encouragement and advice of the 4H clubs sponsored by the Ohio State university in planting that acre of trees this year.

Forestry clubs will be formed this year for the first time in Ohio, 4H club leaders at Columbus announce, because of the increased interest in forestry and in forest conservation in Ohio. Growing trees, then, will take its place in the 4H program alongside of growing corn and potatoes, raising hogs and calves and chickens, making garments, and learning the elements of human nutrition.

In a nine page mimeographed folder giving detailed instructions to future forestry club members, F. W. Dean, forester of the agricultural college extension service, outlines the object of forestry club work as four-fold:

First, to grow a crop of timber; second to reclaim old or abandoned fields that are idle and producing only weeds, poverty grass and broom sedge, and also to convert unsightly, gullied hillsides into beauty spots; third, to build or to thicket existing woodlands that are too open, or that contain only weeds and valueless trees which should be replaced by trees of some value; and fourth, to add to the existing woodland on farms."

Young Ohio has the example of New York and New Hampshire youth for inspiration. This year in New Hampshire 4H forestry club members are planning 100,000 pine trees.

Use Brush on Floors

The occasional use of a weighted floor brush will assist in keeping the finish of your oak floor in the best condition. At least once a year the floor should be given a dressing of wax, well rubbed. Do not neglect your floors until the finish is worn down to the wood. A little attention at the right time maintains "the perfect floor" indefinitely.

OHIO EGG PRODUCERS LOCATED RIGHT

So Economist Asserts in Discussing Post War Increased Output.

If over production in the poultry industry should come within the next few years and send the price of eggs down to a new low level to the joy of consumers and the despair of producers, Ohio poultrymen would stand a better chance of breaking even than would the poultryman of almost any other state, according to an analysis by Guy W. Miller, rural economics extension specialist at the Ohio State university.

Talk of overproduction is current because egg production has increased about 25 per cent in the United States since the war, tho the country's population has increased only 8 per cent. However, it should be remembered that the poultry industry is one of the easiest to get in or go out of and the possibility of overproduction for any great length of time is less than in most other farm enterprises. Ohio, producing 5.8 per cent of the Nation's eggs, increased its production more than 10 per cent since the war.

"As a poultry state Ohio occupies a strategic position," Mr. Miller points out. "In western Ohio we have corn belt conditions, with all the advantages of cheap feed for economical egg production. In eastern and northern Ohio, as well as western Pennsylvania, there is a large industrial section capable of consuming Ohio's egg and poultry products."

"In California, one of Ohio's competitors for the egg market in our own Ohio cities, poultrymen must buy considerable feed in the corn belt, ship it west, then ship the eggs back east. They can do this now and make money at it partly because of climatic advantage, but more because they know how to get high production in the winter months, when egg prices are generally high."

"Ohio poultrymen can reduce this handicap," Mr. Miller says, "in large part by breeding and feeding for high winter egg production. Ohio has the important advantage of low feed cost and nearness to market."

WHY BABE RUTH GETS THE COIN

New York, April 12.—(UP.)—Two of the principal reasons why Babe Ruth is getting $70,000 a year were demonstrated in Brooklyn Saturday and Sunday.

First, the Babe is the greatest drawing card in the game and next he is a great ball player.

Ruth drew 35,000 spectators across the bridge for two exhibition games that marked the return of the teams from the south and unofficially opened the season. The crowd was attracted in spite of the adverse weather.

Babe won the first game against the Robins by a score of 6 to 5 with a homer and a single that scored two runs, in the second game Sunday he got three singles in three times up and scored one run that won the game 4 to 3.

The big money men of the New York Giants, Rogers Hornsby and Eddie Roush, are also earning their money. Roush got a double and two singles in the first game against the Senators and Hornsby got two singles and scored a run. In the Sunday game Hornsby got a double and a single and scored a run. Roush also scored one run although he did not get a hit.

Tris Speaker, one of the main works of the Washington Senators, hit a homer in Saturday's game against the Giants and got two doubles and a single Sunday.

Ty Cobb failed at the bat in his last two games with the Athletics, failing to hit in six trips to the plate but Eddie Collins did better with a homer and a single in five trips to the plate.

The Athletics have become a great drawing card with 12,000 paid admissions in Philadelphia Saturday and 15,000 in Newark Sunday. The Giants drew 18,000 in two games with the Senators which is nothing out of the ordinary.

AUTOMOBILES

Make Short City Blocks Out of Date

Persons buying home sites should avoid districts where the streets are too close together, says Jesse C. Nichols, as reported by Hugh Fullerton in an interview in this week's Liberty. Nichols, who has a long record of achievement as a developer of beautiful home-communities, explains that:

"The automobile is changing conditions in residence districts largely, and to a great extent doing away with the necessity of frequent cross streets for traffic. I wouldn't buy where the main streets are connected every 400 or 600 feet. There is no necessity for these streets, as an auto can run around a block in a few minutes."

Speaking of some of the communities which he has planned and developed, Nichols says: "We are now placing the cross streets 1,400 or more feet apart. That is too far for pedestrians to walk around to reach the next street, so we break the long blocks with pedestrians ways—public streets, of course—narrow and capable of being developed beautifully, giving pleasant places for strolls and much privacy to the houses facing them."

RAINS A BLOW TO FARMERS

Rust and Smut Threaten the Wheat Crop.

Coffeyville, Kans., April 13.—(UP.)—Further disaster faced the Kansas farmer today with reports of more rain in the offing. Crops already damaged by excessive rains over last week-end will suffer added losses by more rain, it was feared here.

Oklahoma has felt the breath of another storm, with one person killed and several others injured in a near-tornado at Mustang last night. A windstorm swept that city, killing Mrs. Frank New and injuring two other members of the family.

Rust and smut in wheat in southeastern Kansas and northern Oklahoma will make the crop almost a total failure in these sections of the state, it was said here. Potatoes too, will suffer materially, with the seed rotting in the ground.

ROGERS CHALLENGES SUNDAY TO DEBATE

Vincennes, Ind., April 12.

It's all the rage now to hold a debate on prohibition, if you can find a crowd drunk enough to pay to hear it.

I hereby challenge Billy Sunday on the subject, "Resolved, that the talk and arguments used for and against prohibition are worse on the public's morals than the drinking."

Billy can take either side, affirmative, negative, progressive, or farmers' relief.

At the finish we will split 50-50. He can take the decision and I will take the gate receipts.

Yours for getting this settled by the right people.

WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Let me hear from this Billy, over in Aurora, right away. If you don't take me, why Aimee will.

New York Novelist Lives 25 Years in Neighborhood

New York.—A New Yorker of thirty years' standing, Elizabeth Jordan, novelist, has lived twenty-five years in one neighborhood.

Aside from her writing, she is president of the co-operative apartment building on Gramercy park where she resides. Dramatic criticism is her avocation. Her only play, "The Lady From Oklahoma," was a failure each of the three times it opened in New York but was successful on the road.

In addition to eight or nine novels, numerous short stories and magazine articles have come from her typewriter. So deep was she in work recently that it was necessary to decline a publisher's request that she go to Spain to write a story.

It is apparent that in many of the corporations known as Home & Co., hubby is vice president.

Cities Require Protected Milk

Ordinances Are Adopted in Many Towns Demanding Tuberculin Test.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Extensive interest of cities in the nation-wide campaign against tuberculosis of live stock is seen in results of a survey recently conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture. A total of 874 cities and towns have ordinances requiring the tuberculin testing of cattle furnishing milk for consumption. Official reports indicate that with the exception of about 1 per cent the ordinances are fairly well enforced.

The action of such cities as Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Louisville, in promulgating tuberculin-test requirements has stimulated recent interest in this subject. The survey showed, however, that the smaller communities also are fully as active in safeguarding their milk supplies.

Steps Taken to Safeguard.

In addition to the 874 cities having tuberculin-test ordinances, 735 provide an option between tuberculin testing and pasteurization. Thus a total of 1,249 municipalities have taken steps to safeguard their milk supplies from possibility of disease transmission.

Fourteen states also have enacted laws or have issued regulations authorized by law requiring the tuberculin testing of cattle. Though varying in details, the laws have the same general purpose—to safeguard the wholesomeness of milk supplies. In all cases tuberculin tests must be applied by approved graduate veterinarians.

As a basis for skilled tuberculin testing in which the public may have confidence, the federal and state veterinary officials have prepared lists of "accredited" and "approved" veterinarians. These terms apply to private practitioners who have satisfied federal and state authorities as to their qualifications.

Forms of Supervision.

An examination of the forms of supervision over the tuberculin testing of cattle supplying cities with milk shows the large extent to which cities have accepted the so-called uniform plan of drinking. This plan provides federal and state indemnities for cattle which prove to be tuberculous and which are removed from the herd and slaughtered. The plan is followed by 634 cities. Cities that rely on municipal inspection alone number 498, while 117 other cities and towns use a combination of the two safeguards or make some other provision for tuberculin testing.

A study of reports from the various states explains the rather general adoption of pasteurization as an additional safeguard even when the cattle are tuberculin tested. Proper pasteurization, as is well known, destroys any infection from other disease-producing organisms that may be present. It also gives double assurance that no living tubercle bacilli are present.

Milk From Other States.

Some states, of which Florida is a typical example, receive large quantities of milk from other states. Florida does not have a state-wide tuberculin-testing law, but the city of Miami, for instance, requires pasteurization in addition to tuberculin testing. Much other milk received in the state is also pasteurized since its origin, outside of the state, is beyond the jurisdiction of local inspectors. In several small towns tuberculin testing of cattle is conducted in response to a demand of patrons, though no official ordinance requires such tests.

These sidelights appear to show the strength of public opinion and the extent to which milk consumers demand safety with respect to their milk supplies. The condition appears to be especially true in states to which tourists and home-seekers go for their health.

Several states have issued educational literature dealing with bovine tuberculosis, the evidence of transmission to human beings, plans for eradication, and laws and regulations for suppressing the disease.

Besides this means of stimulating interest in safe milk supplies, various state officials have drafted sample milk ordinances based on successful ordinances elsewhere. In these are embodied effective and practical provisions for dealing with the tuberculosis problem.

Some cities have taken more definite action than others, but evidence is abundant that city "fathers" are becoming more and more concerned in guarding the milk consumed in their communities.

Demonstration Highway Built Through Bull Run

A demonstration highway from which it is expected to obtain information comparable in value with that produced by the Bates road and Pittsburg (Calif.) tests and the experiments of the bureau of public roads at Arlington, Va., is now under construction between Fairfax and Warrenton, Va.

The road, which is being built by the Virginia highway commission under the direction of Henry G. Shibley, chairman, and C. S. Mullen, chief engineer, is a federal-aid project. It traverses the historic Bull Run battlefield and the famous bridge over the run still may be seen by visitors to the demonstration road.

PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 16: 13-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Pleases Jesus.

JUNIOR TOPIC—Confessing Our Faith in Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Confessing Christ Openly.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What think ye of Christ?

The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and witnessed His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of Him. In order to help them into the right conception, He provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman of the group of disciples.

I. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16).
1. How provoked.
Two questions of Christ put to the disciples called forth this great confession.

(1) Whom do men say I, the Son of Man, am (v. 13).

1. He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning Him. As a wise teacher He knew that this would help crystallize the view of the disciples. The people recognized Jesus as a teacher or a prophet, with more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. The multitudes today recognize Jesus as an unique personality and as having been a great teacher, but that which offends them is His deity.

(2) "Whom say ye that I am?" (v. 15). This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning Him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough. There must be definite, correct and personal belief in Him. Personal belief is worth infinitely more than the knowledge of what others think, for upon personal belief hinges character and destiny.

2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16).
Two vital things, the Messiahship and deity of Jesus. That which Jesus called forth from Peter is the burning question of today. "What think ye of Christ?" is the question that must be answered by everyone.

3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17).

He pronounced him blessed. Truly he was blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ.

II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vv. 18-20).
Christ declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body, to the members of which He will give eternal life and into whose hands He would entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. Christ declared that Peter should be the foundation stone in His church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter and on this rock (truth confessed) is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Pet. 2:5). The keys entrusted to Peter were used on the day of Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius.

III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-23).
From that time Jesus began to show unto the disciples how that He must go unto Jerusalem and suffer many things, be killed and raised again the third day. This indeed startled the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried: "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory of the hilltops. A new hope then filled his heart (1 Pet. 1:3, 4). Many are yet stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross. Salvation by blood is hated by the devil.

IV. The Cost of Discipleship (v. 24).
To follow Christ means to suffer. It means to turn one's back upon the world.

1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and the denial of self.

2. Take up His cross.
This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God.

3. Follow Christ.
This means to have the mind of Christ; to be like Christ. Christ will come in glory to reward all such.

The Power of God
Many a battle has been won by the arrival of reinforcements. When a man is fighting a battle against his evil tendencies, the coming of the power of God into his soul often means victory. The human reinforced by the divine assures us of heaven.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

Nature
Nature has a power to show what is inside of a man that responds to God on the outside.—Echoes.

HAS SLEEPING SICKNESS

Marion, April 12.—Mrs. Cain Smith, Marion, whom physicians have been unable to arouse for more than two weeks, is in a critical condition due to lack of nourishment, doctors attending her said today. Mrs. Smith is a victim of sleeping sickness.

Synthetic Products

Synthesis means putting together, and it is, therefore, the opposite of analysis, which means taking apart, splitting up into its constituent parts. In chemistry, synthesis is making rapid strides, and substances are made now synthetically to such an extent as to do away with the necessity in some cases of producing them by natural means. The production of indigo is a striking illustration of this fact.

MEAT CONSUMPTION OF 1926 SHOWS INCREASE OVER 1925

Chicago.—Government figures just made available showing a large increase in total meat consumption for 1926 over 1925 while consumption per person was slightly less, indicate that live-stock producers have a difficult task in keeping pace with the American appetite for meat, according to D. A. Millett of Denver, prominent live stock breeder and chairman of the National Live Stock and Meat board, in a report to board members.

Mr. Millett pointed out that the total production of 17,245,000,000 pounds of meat for 1926 exceeded the previous year by 240,000,000 pounds. Per capita consumption was quoted at 142.8, whereas in 1925 it was 143.6. He attributed this slight drop of eight-tenths of a pound to the rapidly increasing population and emphasized that this condition indicated an absence of surplus supplies.

The fact that more beef was produced and consumed during 1926 than ever before was given emphasis by the board chairman. The official figures showed 7,458,000,000 pounds of beef produced and this not only broke all previous records but placed beef above pork in point of quantity. It was the first time for a number of years that cattle had furnished more meat than hogs.

This situation was attributed partly to the shortage of hogs which was experienced as a continuation of the downward trend following the overproduction of 1923 and 1924.

The production and consumption of lamb was noted for its increase over the last several years. Production reached the highest mark since 1914 and per capita consumption was on the up grade, standing at 5.5 pounds. For the past three years this figure stood at 5.2. Total lamb and mutton production was placed at 643,000,000 pounds, which was larger by 44,000,000 pounds than the production of 1925.

Ships Scuttled in 1692Are Found by Dredgers

Paris.—Two hundred and thirty-five years ago three armed vessels bearing vast treasure destined for the coffers of Louis XIV's treasury to carry on his wars were sunk by order of the admiral of Louis' fleet at the very entrance to Cherbourg harbor, whence almost every day great liners leave France on their way across the Atlantic.

The crew was saved, so history says, but guns, munitions and strong-bound chests filled with silver pieces vanished beneath the waters on that fateful battle day, May 29, 1692. Harassed by the pursuing enemy, the admiral of the fleet ordered the destruction of his vessels rather than they should fall into the hands of the adversary.

Today the hulls of all three ships, the Triomphant, the Soleil-Royal and the Admirable, lie wedged deep down in the sand. Only since the authorities of the port have set about making Cherbourg into one of the great world ports capable of receiving the largest liners have dredging operations brought to light vestiges of the treasure ships that remain buried beneath the channel way which is now in progress of being deepened.

The Triomphant, covered by a layer of sand 15 feet deep, is the first to be unearthed, but as yet no signs of gold or silver have been found. The Soleil-Royal is believed to hold the riches. Cannon projectiles used by the French fleet in 1692 have been recovered and are to be sent to the war museum in Paris.

British Royal Family Are Tireless Readers

London.—The British royal family is exceptionally well read. The duke and duchess of York insisted on having a parcel of new books sent them every week during their Australian tour.

The taste of the duchess, who is the greater reader of the two, tends toward classical literature. The duke is interested in books on sporting subjects and likes to read a good detective story.

The prince of Wales, at York house, has an interesting collection of books on travel in various countries, most of them dealing with places visited during his tours.

TEXAS TORNADO LEAVES DEATH DEVASTATION

In Its Path, Death Toll 56 and 170 Injured in Tuesday Nights Storm.

Death toll of the tornado that turned this western Texas plateau town of Rock Springs into a shambles within a few minutes Tuesday night stood at 56 Wednesday night with 170 injured a score of whom were expected to die.

Literally crushed by the terrific wind, Rock Springs Wednesday had the appearance of a war ruined village, as U. S. cavalrymen, army surgeons and nurses and airmen from Kelly Field, San Antonio, joined civilian relief workers in recovering the dead, evacuation the wounded and assisting the homeless.

Rescue work was seriously impeded by muddy roads, which wind their tortuous way over the mountains and by the fact that Rock Springs has neither railroad nor telegraph lines.

Frank Rahmstorf, San Antonio, eye witness to the destructive sweep of the tornado, reached Camp Wood Wednesday with a vivid account of the disaster.

"I was driving to Rock Springs from Junction," he said. "Miles before I reached Rock Springs I saw the sinister funnel-shaped cloud racing ahead of me. There was a greenish yellow tinge to the main cloud, set a background of inky blackness. I feared trouble.

"When I got into Rock Springs the cloud was hanging just above the city not a breath of air stirring. At 7:29 it broke. Just a swish and a roar, then havoc and pandemonium.

"The cloud dipped and seemed to grasp the city. For six minutes it raged and roared. I had taken refuge in the Valentine hotel. A number of other people also were there. They dashed to the concrete annex. But I was unable to follow them before the entire roof collapsed. Fortunately I managed to seek refuge under some heavy timbers and escaped unhurt.

"But the sight when I reached the streets was one of indescribable horror. From my vantage point under the hotel roof I had seen trees, human beings, houses and larger buildings hurled about like so much chaff. Scantlings were lifted and driven thru the bodies of victims who sought to escape the storm's fury. The sidewalks literally ran blood. It resembled more a battle field in France than a peaceful little west Texas town."

Among those killed were H. B. Griffith, county attorney and his daughter, Monna R. Dollahite, editor of the Edwards County Leader, and his daughter, Mattie, also lost their lives.

Using Texas as a vast playground truant winds and twisters of varying intensity cavorted over the state Wednesday.

From nine or ten sections reports of damage came in to the Associated Press in addition to the catastrophe of Rock Springs.

One of the severe windstorms was at Robert Lee, 20 miles north of San Angelo, where $50,000 damage to property was reported. Two Christian churches were blown away, the Methodist church was damaged and two homes were demolished.

The wind skipped thru Bronte, a few miles from Robert Lee, wrecking several buildings.

A baby was killed and several persons injured when a storm struck the Watson community, between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Three persons were injured and two homes destroyed by a tornado near Needmore, Oklahoma, eight miles north of Denison.

Wind, accompanied by heavy rain uprooted trees and broke plate glass at Ballinger.

Six persons were injured, 10 houses and 50 barns destroyed by a tornado which swept thru sections of Bell county.

A miniature twister west of Lufkin Wednesday afternoon damaged several residences.

Roofs were blown from houses and the First Baptist church at Atlanta, but no one was hurt.

Sexes' Vocal Cords

Talking fatigues women less than it does men, a Flemish scientist says in a dry objective way, without entering into the controversy as to whether the female is more talkative than the male.

The scientist explains his statement by two facts: First, that the greater length of the vocal cords, the more energy is required to produce a sound; second, that the vocal cords of women are shorter than those of men.

Marriage Knot Tiedin Unromantic Place

Business far from romantic had taken me to the same floor that the marriage license bureau is on in the county building of a not so far distant city.

When I went to take the elevator to the street an elevator boy stuck his head out and inquired, "Want to witness a wedding, lady?"

I agreed and he beckoned me into the elevator and shut the door, explaining as he pointed to the two other people in the elevator, "This here's the justice and this is the bride. My pal, Bill, has gone for the license. Her folks are chasing us, so we have to get the ceremony over quick. You and me are witnesses."

In a few minutes a young man rushed down the hall and into our elevator. The cage was lowered a little way, and then stopped between floors. In that queer setting the wedding service was run through so quickly that the groom was still out of breath when he managed to gasp "I do."

We signed the license, and the elevator went on down to the main floor. I have never seen or heard about the couple since, but I have often wondered.—Philadelphia Record.

Brilliant Retreat

Xenophon, the Greek military leader and historian, lived from about the year 430 to 355 B. C. In 401 B. C. he joined a body of 10,000 Greek mercenaries serving under Cyrus in Persia. Cyrus was slain, and it devolved upon Xenophon to lead home the Greeks over the mountains of Armenia, through a hostile and rugged country to the Black sea. He performed the great feat and wrote an account of the retreat of the 10,000, which is used in college today as a Greek reader.

RED BUG PROVES MOST ANNOYING TO MARINES

Bragman's Bluff, Nicaragua.—The tropical cootie, the red bug, is fifty times more annoying than the cootie with which the United States troops had to contend while overseas during the World war, according to the marines and bluejackets who are encamped here enforcing the neutral zone.

The red bug is a tiny species of tick, about the size of a pin head. It is colorless and lives in the grass. Whole nests of the pests attach themselves to human beings who are so unfortunate as to brush against them. The wind, too, which blows in strong gusts here, carries them.

Marines here are bothered by red bugs during the daytime and by mosquitoes at night, so they spend most of their time smothered from head to foot with kerosene, which not only kills the red bugs but keeps the mosquitoes away.

When a red bug alights on the skin it is invisible. But it soon bores its way in, sucking blood while it does so and becoming red and visible. By this time the skin itches vigorously and there is a large lump visible, with the red bug at the bottom of it. Scratching is the only way to get the little pest out, and, even were he not in there, the victim could not resist scratching, the itching being worse than smallpox. Scratching removes the parasite, but leaves an itching, bleeding sore that is bothersome for several days.

While the marines do not hesitate to curse the red bugs, they take them good naturedly, as they do everything else. On the bulletin board outside one of the tents where the marines are encamped appeared a sign announcing that a five dollar prize would be given for the best limerick on the red bug. The more literary marines at once got busy with pencil and paper. This is the limerick that won the prize:

A detestable bug is the red bug,
Far more esteemed as a dead bug.
He alights on your skin
And bores his way in,
Not remaining outside like a bed bug.

AMUSEMENTS

Come, on Jackie! That's the cry that reverberated thru the Met theater when the youngest star of the movies is appearing in his latest production, "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut" a race track story by the late Gerald Beaumont.

Children and grown-ups alike were out of their seats as Jackie, astride "Thunderbolt," came charging down the homestretch — each calling for their favorite to win. Then something dreadful happened, and Jackie faltered—but that's the big surprise in the picture, and it would detract from the entertainment were you to be told everything in this column—suffice to say that never has there been such a race track scene in any other film.

Whoever was responsible for selecting this vehicle for Jackie's first film, sans the Dutch bob, is to be congratulated. Much depended on the story which was to introduce a new Jackie Coogan to the American public. We are frank to admit that we like the Jackie with the regular boy hair cut, just a tiny bit better than the baby Coogan who has blessed the screen these five years past. The young genius may have lost some superfluous hirsute, but those big brown eyes seem to have grown in size since last he appeared in a picture.

The faithfulness with which the director has followed the original manuscript merits particular praise. Any deviation from the story that Gerald Beaumont wrote with Jackie in mind for its hero would have been detrimental to the picture. As the orphaned son of a trainer of fine race horses, Jackie starts to make his way in the world—his chief ambition to be a great jockey. He stows away on a palace horse car which is carrying race horses from the eastern tracks to the west and arrives ultimately at Tanforan, California. What befalls him there, and the series of comedy events which lead to the great race show Jackie at his very best and will add even to the fame that is already his.

SPAN OF LIFE

Is Increased By Work, Says Doctor.

(By Royal S. Copeland.)
In one of his recent articles Bruce Barton told a story about the late J. P. Morgan. Somebody asked the old gentleman, "Why don't you retire?" "When did your father retire?" was the reply. "In 1904." "When did he die?" "In 1906." "There you have it," said Mr. Morgan. "If he had kept at work he would be alive and happy yet."

As I have told you many, many times, the surest way to keep on living is to keep on working. To retire from business after a long career is to signal the undertaker.

Everybody needs work and responsibility. Even the worries that accompany work have their stimulating, as well as their depressing, effects. The reaction from the worries spurs on the flagging processes of the body.

I watched the Main Street of a town where I lived as a young doctor. Within a period of five years a half dozen merchants "retired" from business. Within the same period there were as many funerals.

The idea of retiring is that "a much-needed rest will be taken." As a matter of fact, the colorless life after retirement produces loss of muscular tone, a condition of unstimulated nerve energy, and mental discontent. It is depressing, discouraging, tending to restlessness and wholly useless in bringing about the expected peace and content.

"Man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward," we have read in Holy Writ. He is just as much born to work. It is his natural state. Muscle and nerve cell, body and brain, mind and physical nature—all these, if they are to be well-nourished, properly bathed in pure blood, and at the highest standard of perfection, must be housed in a human establishment devoted to systematic, worth-while work.

Mr. Morgan was a fine example of what men can do in their old age. There are many other shining examples. It is better, anyhow, to take a chance on wearing out, rather than to face the certainty of rusting out—such as results from a lifetime of devotion to duty and hard work.

Mr. Morgan was right when he said of his friend who died after two years of "rest": "If he had kept at work he would be alive and happy yet."

Few Nonswimming Animals

All animals excepting man, monkeys, and perhaps the three toed sloth, either swim naturally or go through the motions of swimming when suddenly immersed in water. There are, however, several animals that, although they swim naturally, drown as they swim. This is the case with rabbits, mice, moles and the smaller cats, drowning being the result of the fur becoming saturated.

WAS THE WATCH YOU CARRY NEW...WHEN HANSOMS RULED THE STREETS?

A watch may never lose a second yet be many years slow

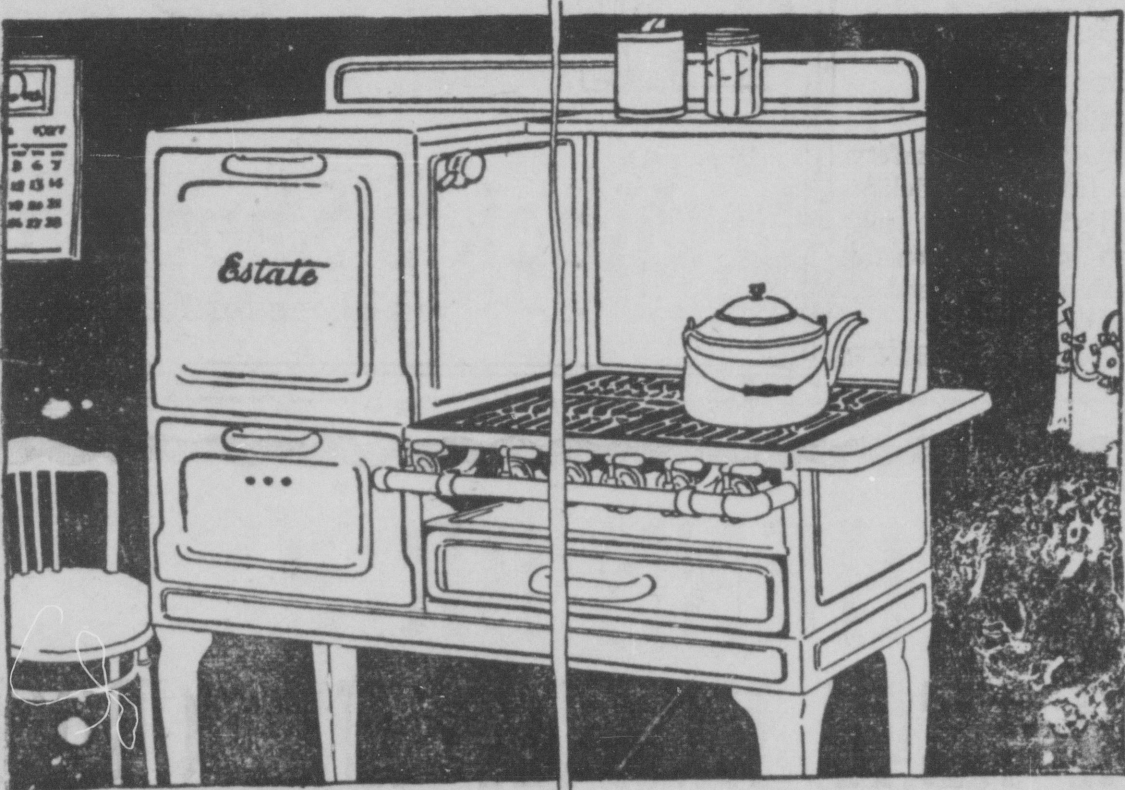

The owner of such a watch may never miss a train or an appointment but it is the one false note in his modern makeup, probably the only thing he has that stamps him as a bit old-fashioned, a trifle behind the times. And yet a new and modish Elgin can be had at a moderate sum. Slipped into your pocket, or strapped on your wrist, it will win and hold your affection as no other watch possibly can. For Elgin is conceded to be the world's standard for watch integrity.

THE WOMAN'S WRIST WATCH, in a case of 14-karat solid white gold, is priced at $60. THE MAN'S WATCH may be had in a 14-karat gold-filled case of white or green tone. Sells for $40.
We will show these and other Elgins to you gladly. No other watch is offered in so generous an assortment of styles nor at a price range so liberal.

TELEPHONES ARE EXPENSIVE IN JAPAN

When a new subscriber in Tokio wishes to have telephone service, it costs him 1,500 yen, or $750, for installation alone; after that he must pay regular cost of service. Last year the number of telephones in the United States increased 800,000. If each new subscriber had been required to pay $750 for installation, it is safe to say the increase in number would have been very much smaller.

$500,000 LOSS IN STEEL PLANT FIRE

Branch of Alloy Corporation At Canton, Is Destroyed.

Canton, April 12.—Explosions and fire destroyed the Berger plant of the Central Alloy Steel Corporation here today with a loss estimated at over $500,000. Three men were burned severely and 30 other employees escaped.

Three walls of the main factory building collapsed. The conflagration started in an overheated lathe painting machine, said William C. Brownlee, who was working on the machine.

The first explosion threw blazing paint around the plant. Blast after blast followed and sheets of flame roared skyward as other explosive liquors were set off. Men working in the plant ran out and within five minutes the factory was a mass of flame.

S. S. French, president of the Berger plant, said the damage would be at least $500,000. The plant was a branch of the Central Alloy Steel Corporation, which was recently acquired by Cyrus S. Eaton and associates, Cleveland.

Upholding the resolution that European war debts to the United States should be cancelled, the sophomore team, composed of Haswell, R. R. Henderson, of Ashland, and Robert Everhart, of Dundee, succeeded in convincing the judges that cancellation was a moral and economic obligation on the part of the United States, in spite of the able opposition of the freshman team.

RUSH OIL TRIALS

Prosecutions Must Be Completed By July 1, When Funds Expire.

Washington, April 13.—(UP.)—The government's "oil lawyers," Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, today put on all legal speed to carry their five remaining so-called "scandal cases" to decision in the next 75 days.

After July 1, the lawyers appointed by President Coolidge will have no funds to carry on their prosecutions, according to former Senator Pomerene, who explained that a provision for reappropriation of about $70,000 for this purpose had been lost in the second deficiency bill, March 4th.

CHIAN KAL-SHECK IS ROUTING THE REDS

BESET WITH ENEMIES WITHIN AND WITHOUT FACES CRISIS

Cantonese Moderates and Reds Battle To Death At Shanghai While Northern Army Advancing To Give Southern Army Battle—Inter-Party Meeting Was Held Thursday At Nanking To Decide Control of the Nationalists.

The Cantonese generalissimo, General Chiang Kai-Shek, on the eve of his projected inter-party meeting at Nanking, at which he hopes to destroy the power of the radicals within the Cantonese regime, was beset Wednesday night at Shanghai by an apparently determined drive of the northerners and fierce fighting between contending factions behind his own lines.

At least 100 Chinese were killed and 250 wounded in fighting Wednesday, which grew out of further raids on the native suburb of Shanghai by General Chiang's troops, which have been routing out "reds" for the past two days.

Wednesday morning 20 pickets of the Shanghai General Labor union also were killed when they attacked the headquarters of the Cantonese troops in the Chapel district. The attack came after a protest parade thru the district organized by workers angered by Tuesday's raids on union headquarters.

In the shooting that took place some bullets entered the nearby international settlement, causing some excitement. The firing was mostly in the Chapel, Nanto, Jessfield and Pootung sections.

Wednesday afternoon's raids, which resulted in 100 dead, were conducted as part of a plan to rid the Kuomintang (Cantonese political organization), of "communists."

Chang's advisers at Shanghai say the Nanking conference will be a final showdown as to whether the Nationalists (Cantonese) will definitely go "red" or will oust the radical civil leaders.

It is at this projected conference that General Chiang hopes to rally sufficient strength to oust the Hankow radicals from the party and to expel other elements from the Kuomintang.

Among the questions to be decided are whether the capital of the Cantonese government shall be moved from Hankow to Nanking.

Meanwhile the police received reports that the general strike called in protest against the raids was growing more extensive and it was estimated Wednesday night that 100,000 workers were out in various industrial sections, including the international settlement. It was feared in some quarters that unless the strike ended by Thursday the newspapers will suffer.

The employees of one paper threatened to walk out Wednesday but on being told not to return if they did so, the workers remained.

While these internal factional disorders were occurring, the northerners, only a few weeks ago in full retreat before the victorious Cantonese Wednesday drove their lines further southward, consolidating their positions all along the north bank of the Yangtse river and in one case, Hsiachoku, near Kiangyin, crossing the river. Kiangyin is half way between Nanking and Shanghai.

The feeling was general in Shanghai that the northerners had decided to stage their drive on the eve of the meeting summoned for Wednesday at Nanking in the hope of splitting up the Cantonese geographically as well as politically.

Word was received that the British gunboat Woodcock, proceeding down the Yangtse river from Hankow, had been fired on by the Chinese, presumably Nationalists. The Woodcock replied with machine guns and six-pounders. There were no British casualties.

FORESTRY CLUB IS ENROLLING THE FARM BOYS

New Kind of 4-H Club Added to Those Sponsored by State College.

Ohio farm boys, after told that an acre of trees planted now will in 40 years provide enough lumber for a barn, will have the encouragement and advice of the 4H clubs sponsored by the Ohio State university in planting that acre of trees this year.

Forestry clubs will be formed this year for the first time in Ohio, 4H club leaders at Columbus announce, because of the increased interest in forestry and in forest conservation in Ohio. Growing trees, then, will take its place in the 4H program alongside of growing corn and potatoes, raising hogs and calves and chickens, making garments, and learning the elements of human nutrition.

In a nine page mimeographed folder giving detailed instructions to future forestry club members, F. W. Dean, forester of the agricultural college extension service, outlines the object of forestry club work as four-fold:

First, to grow a crop of timber; second to reclaim old or abandoned fields that are idle and producing only weeds, poverty grass and broom sedge, and also to convert unsightly, gullied hillsides into beauty spots; third, to build or to thicket existing woodlands that are too open, or that contain only weeds and valueless trees which should be replaced by trees of some value; and fourth, to add to the existing woodland on farms."

Young Ohio has the example of New York and New Hampshire youth for inspiration. This year in New Hampshire 4H forestry club members are planning 100,000 pine trees.

Use Brush on Floors

The occasional use of a weighted floor brush will assist in keeping the finish of your oak floor in the best condition. At least once a year the floor should be given a dressing of wax, well rubbed. Do not neglect your floors until the finish is worn down to the wood. A little attention at the right time maintains "the perfect floor" indefinitely.

OHIO EGG PRODUCERS LOCATED RIGHT

If over production in the poultry industry should come within the next few years and send the price of eggs down to a new low level to the joy of consumers and the despair of producers, Ohio poultrymen would stand a better chance of breaking even than would the poultryman of almost any other state, according to an analysis by Guy W. Miller, rural economics extension specialist at the Ohio State university.

Talk of overproduction is current because egg production has increased about 25 per cent in the United States since the war, tho the country's population has increased only 8 per cent. However, it should be remembered that the poultry industry is one of the easiest to get in or out of and the possibility of overproduction for any great length of time is less than in most other farm enterprises. Ohio, producing 5.8 per cent of the Nation's eggs, increased its production more than 10 per cent since the war.

"As a poultry state Ohio occupies a strategic position," Mr. Miller points out. "In western Ohio we have corn belt conditions, with all the advantages of cheap feed for economical egg production. In eastern and northern Ohio, as well as western Pennsylvania, there is a large industrial section capable of consuming Ohio's egg and poultry products."

"In California, one of Ohio's competitors for the egg market in our own Ohio cities, poultrymen must buy considerable feed in the corn belt. They can do this now and make money at it partly because of climatic advantage, but more because they know how to get high production in the winter months, when egg prices are generally high."

"Ohio poultrymen can reduce this handicap," Mr. Miller says, "in large part by breeding and feeding for high winter egg production. Ohio has the important advantage of low feed cost and nearness to market."

WHY BABE RUTH GETS THE COIN

New York, April 12.—(UP)—Two of the principal reasons why Babe Ruth is getting $70,000 a year were demonstrated in Brooklyn Saturday and Sunday.

First, the Babe is the greatest drawing card in the game and next he is a great ball player.

Ruth drew 35,000 spectators across the bridge for two exhibition games that marked the return of the teams from the south and unofficially opened the season. The crowd was attracted in spite of the adverse weather.

Babe won the first game against the Robins by a score of 6 to 5 with a homer and a single that scored two runs, in the second game Sunday he got three singles in three times up and scored one run that won the game 4 to 3.

The big money men of the New York Giants, Rogers Hornsby and Eddie Roush, are also earning their money. Roush got a double and two singles in the first game against the Senators and Hornsby got two singles and scored a run. In the Sunday game Hornsby got a double and a single and scored a run. Roush also scored one run although he did not get a hit.

Tris Speaker, one of the main works of the Washington Senators, hit a homer in Saturday's game against the Giants and got two doubles and a single Sunday.

Ty Cobb failed at the bat in his last two games with the Athletics, failing to hit in six trips to the plate but Eddie Collins did better with a homer and a single in five trips to the plate.

The Athletics have become a great drawing card with 12,000 paid admissions in Philadelphia Saturday and 15,000 in Newark Sunday. The Giants drew 18,000 in two games with the Senators which is nothing out of the ordinary.

AUTOMOBILES

Make Short City Blocks Out of Date

Persons buying home sites should avoid districts where the streets are too close together, says Jesse C. Nichols, as reported by Hugh Fullerton in an interview in this week's Liberty. Nichols, who has a long record of achievement as a developer of beautiful home-communities, explains that:

"The automobile is changing conditions in residence districts largely, and to a great extent doing away with the necessity of frequent cross streets for traffic. I wouldn't buy where the main streets are connected every 400 or 600 feet. There is no necessity for these streets, as an auto can run around a block in a few minutes."

Speaking of some of the communities which he has planned and developed, Nichols says: "We are now placing the cross streets 1,400 or more feet apart. That is too far for pedestrians to walk around to reach the next street, so we break the long blocks with pedestrians ways—public streets, of course—narrow and capable of being developed beautifully, giving pleasant places for strolls and much privacy to the houses facing them."

RAINS A BLOW TO FARMERS

Rust and Smut Threaten the Wheat Crop.

Coffeyville, Kans., April 13.—(UP.)—Further disaster faced the Kansas farmer today with reports of more rain in the offing. Crops already damaged by excessive rains over last week-end will suffer added losses by more rain, it was feared here.

Oklahoma has felt the breath of another storm, with one person killed and several others injured in a near-tornado at Mustang last night. A windstorm swept that city, killing Mrs. Frank New and injuring two other members of the family.

Rust and smut in wheat in southeastern Kansas and northern Oklahoma will make the crop almost a total failure in these sections of the state, it was said here. Potatoes too, will suffer materially, with the seed rotting in the ground.

ROGERS CHALLENGES SUNDAY TO DEBATE

Vincennes, Ind., April 12.

It's all the rage now to hold a debate on prohibition, if you can find a crowd drunk enough to pay to hear it.

I hereby challenge Billy Sunday on the subject, "Resolved, that the talk and arguments used for and against prohibition are worse on the public's morals than the drinking."

Billy can take either side, affirmative, negative, progressive, or farmers' relief.

At the finish we will split 50-50. He can take the decision and I will take the gate receipts.

Yours for getting this settled by the right people.

WILL ROGERS.

P. S.—Let me hear from this Billy, over in Aurora, right away. If you don't take me, why Aimee will.

New York Novelist Lives 25 Years in Neighborhood

New York.—A New Yorker of thirty years' standing, Elizabeth Jordan, novelist, has lived twenty-five years in one neighborhood.

Aside from her writing, she is president of the co-operative apartment building on Gramercy park where she resides. Dramatic criticism is her avocation. Her only play, "The Lady From Oklahoma," was a failure each of the three times it opened in New York but was successful on the road.

In addition to eight or nine novels, numerous short stories and magazine articles have come from her type-writer. So deep was she in work recently that it was necessary to decline a publisher's request that she go to Spain to write a story.

It is apparent that in many of the corporations known as Home & Co., hubby is vice president.

Cities Require Protected Milk

Ordinances Are Adopted in Many Towns Demanding Tuberculin Test.

(Prepared by the United States Department of Agriculture.)

Extensive interest of cities in the nation-wide campaign against tuberculosis of live stock is seen in results of a survey recently conducted by the United States Department of Agriculture. A total of 874 cities and towns have ordinances requiring the tuberculin testing of cattle furnishing milk for consumption. Official reports indicate that with the exception of about 1 per cent the ordinances are fairly well enforced.

The action of such cities as Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit and Louisville, in promulgating tuberculin-test requirements has stimulated recent interest in this subject. The survey showed, however, that the smaller communities also are fully as active in safeguarding their milk supplies.

Steps Taken to Safeguard.

In addition to the 874 cities having tuberculin-test ordinances, 735 provide an option between tuberculin testing and pasteurization. Thus a total of 1,249 municipalities have taken steps to safeguard their milk supplies from possibility of disease transmission.

Fourteen states also have enacted laws or have issued regulations authorizing by law requiring the tuberculin testing of cattle. Though varying in details, the laws have the same general purpose—to safeguard the wholesomeness of milk supplies. In all cases tuberculin tests must be applied by approved graduate veterinarians.

As a basis for skilled tuberculin testing in which the public may have confidence, the federal and state veterinary officials have prepared lists of "accredited" and "approved" veterinarians. These terms apply to private practitioners who have satisfied federal and state authorities as to their qualifications.

Forms of Supervision.

An examination of the forms of supervision over the tuberculin testing of cattle supplying cities with milk shows the large extent to which cities have accepted the so-called uniform plan of drinking. This plan provides federal and state indemnities for cattle which prove to be tuberculous and which are removed from the herd and slaughtered. The plan is followed by 634 cities. Cities that rely on municipal inspection alone number 498, while 117 other cities and towns use a combination of the two safeguards or make some other provision for tuberculin testing.

A study of reports from the various states explains the rather general adoption of pasteurization as an additional safeguard even when the cattle are tuberculin tested. Proper pasteurization, as is well known, destroys any infection from other disease-producing organisms that may be present. It also gives double assurance that no living tubercle bacilli are present.

Milk From Other States.

Some states, of which Florida is a typical example, receive large quantities of milk from other states. Florida does not have a state-wide tuberculin-testing law, but the city of Miami, for instance, requires pasteurization in addition to tuberculin testing. Much other milk received in the state is also pasteurized since its origin, outside of the state, is beyond the jurisdiction of local inspectors. In several small towns tuberculin testing of cattle is conducted in response to a demand of patrons, though no official ordinance requires such tests.

These sidelights appear to show the strength of public opinion and the extent to which milk consumers demand safety with respect to their milk supplies. The condition appears to be especially true in states to which tourists and homeseekers go for their health.

Several states have issued educational literature dealing with bovine tuberculosis, the evidence of transmission to human beings, plans for eradication, and laws and regulations for suppressing the disease.

Besides this means of stimulating interest in safe milk supplies, various state officials have drafted sample milk ordinances based on successful ordinances elsewhere. In these are embodied effective and practical provisions for dealing with the tuberculosis problem.

Some cities have taken more definite action than others, but evidence is abundant that city "fathers" are becoming more and more concerned in guarding the milk consumed in their communities.

Demonstration Highway Built Through Bull Run

A demonstration highway from which it is expected to obtain information comparable in value with that produced by the Bates road and Pittsburg (Calif.) tests and the experiments of the bureau of public roads at Arlington, Va., is now under construction between Fairfax and Warrenton, Va.

The road, which is being built by the Virginia highway commission under the direction of Henry G. Shiley, chairman, and C. S. Mullen, chief engineer, is a federal-aid project. It traverses the historic Bull Run battlefield and the famous bridge over the run still may be seen by visitors to the demonstration road.

Lesson for April 17
PETER'S GREAT CONFESSION

LESSON TEXT—Matt. 16: 13-24.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou art the Christ, the Son of the Living God.
PRIMARY TOPIC—Peter Pleases Jesus.
JUNIOR TOPIC—Confessing Our Faith in Jesus.
INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—Confessing Christ Openly.
YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—What think ye of Christ?
The disciples had been with the Lord for several years. They had heard His wonderful words and witnessed His mighty works. Various opinions were extant about Him. Since Jesus was soon to go to the cross it was necessary for the disciples to have a definite and true conception of Him. In order to help them into the right conception, He provoked this confession from Peter as the spokesman of the group of disciples.
1. Peter's Confession (vv. 13-16).
1. How provoked.
Two questions of Christ put to the disciples called forth this great confession.
(1) Whom do men say I, the Son of Man, am (v. 13).
1. He first inquired for the opinion of the people concerning Him. As a wise teacher He knew that this would help crystallize the view of the disciples. The people recognized Jesus as a teacher or a prophet, with more than human authority and power. Today, as then, there is a diversity of opinion among the people as to Jesus Christ. The multitudes today recognize Jesus as an unique personality and as having been a great teacher, but that which offends them is His deity.
(2) "Whom say ye that I am?" (v. 15).
This question involved the personal opinion of the disciples concerning Him. To be able to tell what others think of Jesus is not enough. There must be definite, correct and personal belief in Him. Personal belief is worth infinitely more than the knowledge of what others think, for upon personal belief hinges character and destiny.
2. What Peter's confession involved (v. 16).
Two vital things, the Messiahship and deity of Jesus. That which Jesus called forth from Peter is the burning question of today. "What think ye of Christ?" is the question that must be answered by everyone.
3. Christ's commendation of Peter (v. 17).
He pronounced him blessed. Truly he was blessed, for he both possessed and confessed Christ.
II. The New Body, the Church, Announced by Christ (vv. 18-20).
Christ declared His intention of bringing into existence a new body, to the members of which He will give eternal life and into whose hands He would entrust the keys of the Kingdom. Peter was to have a distinguished place in this body. Christ declared that Peter should be the foundation stone in His church. Christ is the chief corner stone upon which the church is built. Christ's person and Messiahship were confessed by Peter and on this rock (truth confessed) is laid the foundation of the apostles and prophets (Eph. 2:20). All believers are living stones of this house (1 Pet. 2:5). The keys entrusted to Peter were used on the day of Pentecost and again in the case of Cornelius.
III. The Cross the Way to the Throne (vv. 21-23).
From that time Jesus began to show unto the disciples how that He must go unto Jerusalem and suffer many things, be killed and raised again the third day. This indeed startled the disciples. They did not yet realize that redemption was to be accomplished through the passion of the cross. So unwelcome was this announcement that Peter cried: "This shall not be unto thee." Peter later saw through this darkness to the glory of the hilltops. A new hope then filled his heart (1 Pet. 1:3, 4). Many are yet stumbling over the doctrine of salvation and redemption through the suffering of the cross. Salvation by blood is hated by the devil.
IV. The Cost of Discipleship (v. 24).
To follow Christ means to suffer. It means to turn one's back upon the world.
1. There must be denial of self. There is a wide difference between self-denial and the denial of self.
2. Take up His cross.
This cross is the suffering and shame which lie in the path of loyalty to God.
3. Follow Christ.
This means to have the mind of Christ; to be like Christ. Christ will come in glory to reward all such.

The Power of God
Many a battle has been won by the arrival of reinforcements. When a man is fighting a battle against his evil tendencies, the coming of the power of God into his soul often means victory. The human reinforced by the divine assures us of heaven.—Herald of Gospel Liberty.

HAS SLEEPING SICKNESS
Marion, April 12.—Mrs. Cain Smith, Marion, whom physicians have been unable to arouse for more than two weeks, is in a critical condition due to lack of nourishment, doctors attending her said today. Mrs. Smith is a victim of sleeping sickness.

Synthetic Products
Synthesis means putting together, and it is, therefore, the opposite of analysis, which means taking apart, splitting up into its constituent parts. In chemistry, synthesis is making rapid strides, and substances are made now synthetically to such an extent as to do away with the necessity in some cases of producing them by natural means. The production of indigo is a striking illustration of this fact.

MEAT CONSUMPTION OF 1926 SHOWS INCREASE OVER 1925

Figures Show Producers Have Hard Task Keeping Pace With American Appetite.

Chicago.—Government figures just made available showing a large increase in total meat consumption for 1926 over 1925 while consumption per person was slightly less, indicate that live-stock producers have a difficult task in keeping pace with the American appetite for meat, according to D. A. Millett of Denver, prominent live stock breeder and chairman of the National Live Stock and Meat board, in a report to board members.

Mr. Millett pointed out that the total production of 17,245,000,000 pounds of meat for 1926 exceeded the previous year by 240,000,000 pounds. Per capita consumption was quoted at 142.8, whereas in 1925 it was 143.6. He attributed this slight drop of eight-tenths of a pound to the rapidly increasing population and emphasized that this condition indicated an absence of surplus supplies.

The fact that more beef was produced and consumed during 1926 than ever before was given emphasis by the board chairman. The official figures showed 7,458,000,000 pounds of beef produced and this not only broke all previous records but placed beef above pork in point of quantity. It was the first time for a number of years that cattle had furnished more meat than hogs.

This situation was attributed partly to the shortage of hogs which was experienced as a continuation of the downward trend following the overproduction of 1923 and 1924.

The production and consumption of lamb was noted for its increase over the last several years. Production reached the highest mark since 1914 and per capita consumption was on the up grade, standing at 5.5 pounds. For the past three years this figure stood at 5.2. Total lamb and mutton production was placed at 643,000,000 pounds, which was larger by 44,000,000 pounds than the production of 1925.

Ships Scuttled in 1692Are Found by Dredgers

Paris.—Two hundred and thirty-five years ago three armed vessels bearing vast treasure destined for the coffers of Louis XIV's treasury carried on his wars were sunk by order of the admiral of Louis' fleet at the very entrance to Cherbourg harbor, whence almost every day great liners leave France on their way across the Atlantic.

The crew was saved, so history says, but guns, munitions and strong-bound chests filled with silver pieces vanished beneath the waters on that fateful battle day, May 29, 1692. Harassed by the pursuing enemy, the admiral of the fleet ordered the destruction of his vessels rather than they should fall into the hands of the adversary.

Today the hulls of all three ships, the Triumphant, the Soleil-Royal and the Admirable, lie wedged deep down in the sand. Only since the authorities of the port have set about making Cherbourg into one of the great world ports capable of receiving the largest liners have dredging operations brought to light vestiges of the treasure ships that remain buried beneath the channel way which is now in progress of being deepened.

The Triumphant, covered by a layer of sand 15 feet deep, is the first to be unearthed, but as yet no signs of gold or silver have been found. The Soleil-Royal is believed to hold the riches. Cannon projectiles used by the French fleet in 1692 have been recovered and are to be sent to the war museum in Paris.

British Royal Family Are Tireless Readers

London.—The British royal family is exceptionally well read. The duke and duchess of York insisted on having a parcel of new books sent them every week during their Australian tour.

The taste of the duchess, who is the greater reader of the two, tends toward classical literature. The duke is interested in books on sporting subjects and likes to read a good detective story.

The prince of Wales, at York house, has an interesting collection of books on travel in various countries, most of them dealing with places visited during his tours.

Butler, Pa.—A new claimant for the egg-eating championship was announced in the person of Claude Kennedy, twenty-seven, of Butler, an employee of a car-building company. Kennedy claims to have eaten 43 eggs at one sitting the other night, the eggs being supplied by a South Main street market.

TEXAS TORNADO LEAVES DEATH DEVASTATION

In Its Path, Death Toll 56 and 170 Injured in Tuesday Nights Storm.

Death toll of the tornado that turned this western Texas plateau town of Rock Springs into a shambles within a few minutes Tuesday night stood at 56 Wednesday night with 170 injured a score of whom were expected to die.

Literally crushed by the terrific wind, Rock Springs Wednesday had the appearance of a war ruined village, as U. S. cavalrymen, army surgeons and nurses and airmen from Kelly Field, San Antonio, joined civilian relief workers in recovering the dead, evacuation the wounded and assisting the homeless.

Rescue work was seriously impeded by muddy roads, which wind their tortuous way over the mountains and by the fact that Rock Springs has neither railroad nor telegraph lines.

Frank Rahmstorf, San Antonio, eye witness to the destructive sweep of the tornado, reached Camp Wood Wednesday with a vivid account of the disaster.

"I was driving to Rock Springs from Junction," he said. "Miles before I reached Rock Springs I saw the sinister funnel-shaped cloud racing ahead of me. There was a greenish yellow tinge to the main cloud, set a background of inky blackness. I feared trouble.

"When I got into Rock Springs the cloud was hanging just above the city not a breath of air stirring. At 7:29 it broke. Just a swish and a roar, then havoc and pandemonium.

"The cloud dipped and seemed to grasp the city. For six minutes it raged and roared. I had taken refuge in the Valentine hotel. A number of other people also were there. They dashed to the concrete annex. But I was unable to follow them before the entire roof collapsed. Fortunately I managed to seek refuge under some heavy timbers and escaped unhurt.

"But the sight when I reached the streets was one of indescribable horror. From my vantage point under the hotel roof I had seen trees, human beings, houses and larger buildings hurled about like so much chaff. Scantlings were lifted and driven thru the bodies of victims who sought to escape the storm's fury. The sidewalks literally ran blood. It resembled more a battle field in France than a peaceful little west Texas town."

Among those killed were H. B. Griffith, county attorney and his daughter, Menna R. Dollahite, editor of the Edwards County Leader, and his daughter, Mattie, also lost their lives.

Using Texas as a vast playground truant winds and twisters of varying intensity cavorted over the state Wednesday.

From nine or ten sections reports of damage came in to the Associated Press in addition to the catastrophe of Rock Springs.

One of the severe windstorms was at Robert Lee, 20 miles north of San Angelo, where $50,000 damage to property was reported. Two Christian churches were blown away, the Methodist church was damaged and two homes were demolished.

The wind skipped thru Bronte, a few miles from Robert Lee, wrecking several buildings.

A baby was killed and several persons injured when a storm struck the Watson community, between Dallas and Fort Worth.

Three persons were injured and two homes destroyed by a tornado near Needmore, Oklahoma, eight miles north of Denison.

Wind, accompanied by heavy rain uprooted trees and broke plate glass at Ballinger.

Six persons were injured, 10 houses and 50 barns destroyed by a tornado which swept thru sections of Bell county.

A miniature twister west of Lufkin Wednesday afternoon damaged several residences.

Roofs were blown from houses and the First Baptist church at Atlanta, but no one was hurt.

Sexes' Vocal Cords

Talking fatigues women less than it does men, a Flemish scientist says in a dry objective way, without entering into the controversy as to whether the female is more talkative than the male.

The scientist explains his statement by two facts: First, that the greater length of the vocal cords, the more energy is required to produce a sound; second, that the vocal cords of women are shorter than those of men.

Marriage Knot Tiedin Unromantic Place

Business far from romantic had taken me to the same floor that the marriage license bureau is on in the county building of a not so far distant city.

When I went to take the elevator to the street an elevator boy stuck his head out and inquired, "Want to witness a wedding, lady?"

I agreed and he beckoned me into the elevator and shut the door, explaining as he pointed to the two other people in the elevator, "This here's the justice and this is the bride. My pal, Bill, has gone for the license. Her folks are chasing us, so we have to get the ceremony over quick. You and me are witnesses."

In a few minutes a young man rushed down the hall and into our elevator. The cage was lowered a little way, and then stopped between floors. In that queer setting the wedding service was run through so quickly that the groom was still out of breath when he managed to gasp "I do."

We signed the license, and the elevator went on down to the main floor. I have never seen or heard about the couple since, but I have often wondered.—Philadelphia Record.

Brilliant Retreat

Xenophon, the Greek military leader and historian, lived from about the year 430 to 355 B. C. In 401 B. C. he joined a body of 10,000 Greek mercenaries serving under Cyrus in Persia. Cyrus was slain, and it devolved upon Xenophon to lead home the Greeks over the mountains of Armenia, through a hostile and rugged country to the Black sea. He performed the great feat and wrote an account of the retreat of the 10,000, which is used in college today as a Greek reader.

RED BUG PROVES MOST ANNOYING TO MARINES

Bragman's Bluff, Nicaragua.—The tropical cootie, the red bug, is fifty times more annoying than the cootie with which the United States troops had to contend while overseas during the World war, according to the marines and bluejackets who are encamped here enforcing the neutral zone.

The red bug is a tiny species of tick, about the size of a pin head. It is colorless and lives in the grass. Whole nests of the pests attach themselves to human beings who are so unfortunate as to brush against them. The wind, too, which blows in strong gusts here, carries them.

Marines here are bothered by red bugs during the daytime and by mosquitoes at night, so they spend most of their time smothered from head to foot with kerosene, which not only kills the red bugs but keeps the mosquitoes away.

When a red bug alights on the skin it is invisible. But it soon bores its way in, sucking blood while it does so and becoming red and visible. By this time the skin itches vigorously and there is a large lump visible, with the red bug at the bottom of it. Scratching is the only way to get the little pest out, and, even were he not in there, the victim could not resist scratching, the itching being worse than smallpox. Scratching removes the parasite, but leaves an itching, bleeding sore that is bothersome for several days.

While the marines do not hesitate to curse the red bugs, they take them good naturedly, as they do everything else. On the bulletin board outside one of the tents where the marines are encamped appeared a sign announcing that a five dollar prize would be given for the best limerick on the red bug. The more literary marines at once got busy with pencil and paper. This is the limerick that won the prize:

A detestable bug is the red bug,
Far more esteemed as a dead bug.
He alights on your skin
And bores his way in,
Not remaining outside like a bed bug.

AMUSEMENTS

Come, on Jackie! That's the cry that reverberated thru the Met theater when the youngest star of the movies is appearing in his latest production, "Johnny Get Your Hair Cut" a race track story by the late Gerald Beaumont.

Children and grown-ups alike were out of their seats as Jackie, astride "Thunderbolt," came charging down the homestretch — each calling for their favorite to win. Then something dreadful happened, and Jackie faltered—but that's the big surprise in the picture, and it would detract from the entertainment were you to be told everything in this column—suffice to say that never has there been such a race track scene in any other film.

Whoever was responsible for selecting this vehicle for Jackie's first film, sans the Dutch bob, is to be congratulated. Much depended on the story which was to introduce a new Jackie Coogan to the American public. We are frank to admit that we like the Jackie with the regular boy haid cut, just a tiny bit better than the baby Coogan who has blessed the screen these five years past. The young genius may have lost some superfluous hirsute, but those big brown eyes seem to have grown in size since last he appeared in a picture.

The faithfulness with which the director has followed the original manu script merits particular praise. Any deviation from the story that Gerald Beaumont wrote with Jackie in mind for its hero would have been detrimental to the picture. As the orphaned son of a trainer of fine race horses, Jackie starts to make his way in the world—his chief ambition to be a great jockey. He stows away on a palace horse car which is carrying race horses from the eastern tracks to the west and arrives ultimately at Tanforan, California. What befalls him there, and the series of comedy events which lead to the great race show Jackie at his very best and will add even to the fame that is already his.

The beautiful race track at Tanforan is used as the setting for this vigorous screen story. Most of the photographic effects are credited to Frank Good, for many years head cinematographer for the Coogan company. E. Reeves Eason, who directed the thrilling chariot race sequences in "Ben-Hur" is responsible for the most exciting horse race ever photographed. The picture was made under the supervision of Jack Coogan Sr. You can buy a good Hat cheap at

Thoughtful Gifts

Most of our enemies are imaginary—as we learn when we get acquainted with them.

Every man decides for himself whether he will die old at forty or young at eighty.

WAS THE WATCH YOU CARRY NEW...WHEN HANSOMS RULED THE STREETS?

A watch may never lose a second yet be many years slow

The owner of such a watch may never miss a train or an appointment but it is the one false note in his modern makeup, probably the only thing he has that stamps him as a bit old-fashioned, a trifle behind the times. And yet a new and modish Elgin can be had at a moderate sum. Slipped into your pocket, or strapped on your wrist, it will win and hold your affection as no other watch possibly can. For Elgin is conceded to be the world's standard for watch integrity.

SPAN OF LIFE

Is Increased By Work, Says Doctor.

(By Royal S. Copeland.)
In one of his recent articles Bruce Barton told a story about the late J. P. Morgan. Somebody asked the old gentleman, "Why don't you retire?" "When did your father retire?" was the reply. "In 1904." "When did he die?" "In 1906." "There you have it," said Mr. Morgan. "If he had kept at work he would be alive and happy yet."

As I have told you many, many times, the surest way to keep on living is to keep on working. To retire from business after a long career is to signal the undertaker.

Everybody needs work and responsibility. Even the worries that accompany work have their stimulating, as well as their depressing, effects. The reaction from the worries spurs on the flagging processes of the body.

I watched the Main Street of a town where I lived as a young doctor. Within a period of five years a half dozen merchants "retired" from business. Within the same period there were as many funerals.

The idea of retiring is that "a much-needed rest will be taken." As a matter of fact, the colorless life after retirement produces loss of muscular tone, a condition of unstimulated nerve energy, and mental discontent. It is depressing, discouraging, tending to restlessness and wholly useless in bringing about the expected peace and content.

"Man is born to trouble as the sparks fly upward," we have read in Holy Writ. He is just as much born to work. It is his natural state. Muscle and nerve cell, body and brain, mind and physical nature—all these, if they are to be well-nourished, properly bathed in pure blood, and at the highest standard of perfection, must be housed in a human establishment devoted to systematic, worth-while work.

Mr. Morgan was a fine example of what men can do in their old age. There are many other shining examples. It is better, anyhow, to take a chance on wearing out, rather than to face the certainty of rusting out—such as results from a lifetime of devotion to duty and hard work.

Mr. Morgan was right when he said of his friend who died after two years of "rest": "If he had kept at work he would be alive and happy yet."

Few Nonswimming Animals

All animals excepting man, monkeys, and perhaps the three-toed sloth, either swim naturally or go through the motions of swimming when suddenly immersed in water. There are, however, several animals that, although they swim naturally, drown as they swim. This is the case with rabbits, mice, moles and the smaller cats, drowning being the result of the fur becoming saturated.

TELEPHONES ARE EXPENSIVE IN JAPAN

When a new subscriber in Tokio wishes to have telephone service, it costs him 1,500 yen, or $750, for installation alone; after that he must pay regular cost of service. Last year the number of telephones in the United States increased 800,000. If each new subscriber had been required to pay $750 for installation, it is safe to say the increase in number would have been very much smaller.

$500,000 LOSS IN STEEL PLANT FIRE

Branch of Alloy Corporation At Canton, Is Destroyed.

Canton, April 12.—Explosions and fire destroyed the Berger plant of the Central Alloy Steel Corporation here today with a loss estimated at over $500,000.

Three men were burned severely and 30 other employees escaped.

Three walls of the main factory building collapsed.

The conflagration started in an overheated lathe painting machine, said William C. Brownlee, who was working on the machine.

The first explosion threw blazing paint around the plant. Blast after blast followed and sheets of flame roared skyward as other explosive liquors were set off.

Men working in the plant ran out and within five minutes the factory was a mass of flame.

S. S. French, president of the Berger plant, said the damage would be at least $500,000.

The plant was a branch of the Central Alloy Steel Corporation, which was recently acquired by Cyrus S. Eaton and associates, Cleveland.

Member Debating Team That Won Decision.

John T. Haswell, of Circleville, was a member of the sophomore debating team that defeated the freshman team in the annual forensic contest at Ohio State University Thursday night.

Upholding the resolution that European war debts to the United States should be cancelled, the sophomore team, composed of Haswell, R. R. Henderson, of Ashland, and Robert Everhart, of Dundee, succeeded in convincing the judges that cancellation was a moral and economic obligation on the part of the United States, in spite of the able opposition of the freshman team.

RUSH OIL TRIALS

Prosecutions Must Be Completed By July 1, When Funds Expire.

Washington, April 13.—(UP.)—The government's "oil lawyers," Atlee Pomerene and Owen J. Roberts, today put on all legal speed to carry their five remaining so-called "scandal cases" to decision in the next 75 days.

After July 1, the lawyers appointed by President Coolidge will have no funds to carry on their prosecutions, according to former Senator Pomerene, who explained that a provision for reappropriation of about $70,000 for this purpose had been lost in the second deficiency bill, March 4th.

ECHOES FROM THE DISTRICT LIBRARY MEETING.

The morning session of the district library meeting, held at the Circleville Library on Tuesday, was of great interest to library users as well as library workers.

Miss Pauline Lambert, assistant librarian at Grandview Heights, gave the first talk, taking as her subject: "Recent Books of Travel and Biography." Included in the number of books on biography, upon which she made comments, was Jessie Conrad's "Conrad as I Knew Him" which she chose for more detailed description, and of the travel books McLaren's "Crowded Solitude" received her special attention. Miss Lambert's enthusiasm and attractive personality, as well as her evident love and appreciation of the good things of literature promise well for her future as a librarian and show that the library profession is attracting a splendid type of young workers.

Mrs. M. E. Teeters, head of the new book department at Lazarus' is a person whose influence will be widely felt in Central Ohio. Her subject was "Library Salesmanship" and her understanding of the great similarity between the commercial side of the book business and the work of the librarian brought her into close harmony with her audience. Mrs. Teeters knows books and she knows people, including librarians of different types and her talk was interesting and full of inspiration. Glimpses of favorite bits gathered from her own reading, the value and joys of reading aloud in the home and the opportunity for both the librarian and the book dealer to awaken and keep awake "book consciousness" were told in a way to make her audience reluctant to have her reach her conclusion.

After the Ball

A dashing phase of every artist's ball is the home going, in the cold gray dawn of the morning after. Invariably it rains, and there is not a taxi in sight. Makeup and grease paint are running, parts of rented costumes are missing, wigs are lost, lovers are separated and husbands and wives are not speaking. Oh, what bliss, to mingle in gay, mad Bohemia!—Vanity Fair.

Riches Have Wings

Riches oftentimes, if nobody takes them away, take to themselves wings and fly away; and, truly, many a time the undue sparing of them is but letting their wings grow, which makes them ready to fly away.—Leighton.

Marble Steps Are Test for Baltimore Wives

Baltimore.—Miles of white marble steps in Maryland's largest city maintain their purity of hue through the daily labor of housewives upon their knees with scrubbing brushes, soap-suds and pumice stone.

The pristine glory of the front doorstep is counted a direct measure of housewifely efficiency in the residential sections. The luckless sister who suffers the grime of yesterday to remain on her front stoop later than noon is likely to encounter the scorn, pity or levity of her neighbors.

On summer evenings the white stoops double for front yard and portico. The families gather upon them while neighborhood gossip eddies up and down the streets.

To Sell Home of Author of "Home, Sweet Home"

New York.—"Home, Sweet Home" is for sale. The inspiration for John Howard Payne's famous sentimental song, the old gray farmhouse, aged by the snows of many winters, in which the author spent his boyhood at East Hampton, Long Island, is to go to the highest bidder.

The home was owned by Gustave H. Buek, president of the Alco Gravure company, until his death recently. Now his widow, Mrs. Hannah Louise Buek, has announced her intention of disposing of the property.

Ways of Women

"It seems to me," remarked the small boy who had been thoughtfully reading the paper, "that it must be dangerous to marry women. I get the idea that in the first place they marry you for your money; if they don't manage to take all of it, they leave you and sue you for alimony; and if they fall at that, then they outlive you and get your life insurance."—Detroit News.
